TAKE A QUICK LOOK AT INDIA, THE WORLD
OF GROWTH

India is the 5th-largest economy in the world and is projected to become the third-largest by 2030. India's growing economy is creating new markets, new investment opportunities, and more jobs not just for Indians but also for people around the world. This economic growth also contributes to global economic stability and creates a ripple effect that benefits other countries. India, with its average age as 29 years, is the youngest country in the world and would remain so till 2070, which presents a significant opportunity for growth in various old and established sectors alongside innovation, technology and start-up ecosystem. Having already displayed the unprecedented growth numbers over the last few decades, today India has the potential to drive global innovation and solve some of the world's most pressing challenges alongside providing steady growth and inclusive welfare.

A large, stylized chess king piece stands in the center of a modern city street at night. The piece has a checkered base and a tiered crown. The street is flanked by tall, illuminated buildings with glowing windows. A person is visible in the distance, looking up at the piece.
